IN GREAT BATTLE ON AISNE

Large Number of Guns and Prisoners and to Have Driven Allies Back All Along the Long Battle Front-Reinforcements Received.

GERMAN REPORT OF THE ALLIES' CAMPAIGN. BERLIN, Sept. 19 [via wireless through Sayville, L. I., to the United Press].-The War Office to-day announced officially that the Germans are assuming the offensive in France and that notable successes have been secured. It says: "A German decisive attack was delivered against the ailled lines south of Noyon in the region along the Lette. Olse and Aisne, participated in by the 13th and 4th Corps and parts of other divisions. It resulted in a decisive gain for the Germans.

Beaument (near the Lorraine frontier, 20 miles northwest of Nancy and 16 miles inside the French frontier) has White the French lines are helding, the Germans have been been stormed and taken with 2,500 French prisoners.

"The attacks of the allies along the entire battle front are being easily repulsed. Guns and prisoners are being taken, but the number is not yet available.

"The attempted invasion of the French over the Vosges into the Breisach valley has been easily repulsed.

"The Eastern army continues its operations in the Suwalki (Russian Poland) province, advancing against the Russian forces.

"Despatches from Agram report a great victory over the 0 indicated.

"The Servians have been completely routed and driven in flight across the Save River, many of the fugitives being drowned."

It is explained that German lines have been extended at certain points and now include the original French lines. The battle, however, is expected to last several days because of the long line and the number of men engaged. Reports that the Germans had run out of field gun ammunition are indignantly denied. Instead the lines of communication are perfect. Trains are run directly to the central points of the battle line, from which places the distribution continues with automobile transport service. The French have several times attempted to carry the German positions by storm, but they have met disaster from deep trenches they constructed. the German artillery and rapid firers.

The greatest German gains have been along the centre, he War Office says.

BERLIN, Sept. 19 (by wireless telegraphy by way of Sayville, L. I.)-According to the Cologne Gazette, Japan sent a special commissioner to a German motor company during the first days of July to order 400 aeroplane motors to be delivered within the shortest limit of time. The order, however, was not carried out.

The German Governor of Belgium (Gen. von der Goltz) has appointed Privy Councillor Dr. von Falcke to decide upon ways and means to effect the protection of Belgian treasures of art against burglary and pillage.

It is announced that three aeroplanes are again over Paris.

Kaiser's Troops Claim to Have Taken Paris Says Allies Have Not Retreated, but Admit That Situation Is Serious and That German Fortifications Are Almost Impregnable-Rain Impedes All Progress.

> FRENCH REPORT ON THE ALLIES' CAMPAIGN. PARIS, Sept. 19 [United Press].—The only official information obtainable concerning the battle of the Aisne is thot it still continues, with 3,000,000 men engaged.

The Germans are reported to be making a supreme effort to everwhelm that portion of the line held by the British east of Soissons and south of the Craonne forest.

At the same time the German extreme left, which had been driven back on the Motz lines, is resuming the offensive.

There is admitted anxiety here regarding the outcome. heavily reinforced, and the fact that the allies have been compelled to attack the Germans everywhere in intrenchments has resulted in very heavy losses.

The allies continue their operations in the effort to turn the German right flank.

Reports of a movement from the northwest to aid this plan are widely current but impossible of confirmation.

The fighting continues under conditions that could Servians by the Austrians far greater than the earlier reports hardly be worse. Heavy rains continue to fall, transforming all of the minor brooks, into rivers. The army which is forced to retreat when the battle of the Aisne ends will face a tremendously difficult task. The roads are almost impassable, and the withdrawal of artillery will present a serious

The official statement this afternoon says:

"On our right wing on the right bank of the Oise in the direction of Noyon we have made progress. We hold all of the heights on this line and also along the right bank of the Aisne in the face of the enemy, who has been heavily reinforced by troops brought up from Lorraine.

"At the centre the Germans have not moved from the

"On our left wing the army of the Crown Prince continues its retreating movement. Our advance in Lorraine is steady. "Summed up, it can be stated that up to the present time there has been no decisive result to either side."

[The announcement regarding Lorraine is in exact contradiction of the official statement issued in Berlin, which declared the German left had assumed the offensive and was now twenty miles inside of the French frontier just north of Nancy.]

Another night attempt by the Germans to break through the allied left wing was frustrated. It was, howev marked with flerce fighting in which many were killed; according to reports reaching Gen. Gallieni to-day.

The fighting on the French left, where the combined right armies of Gens. von Kluck and von Buelow are massed, increases in intensity, but the allied lines are slowly being pushed forward.

The Germans retire to new positions constructed in the rear of their original ones as the pressure increases. At no point have they actually been defeated.

Along the rest of the line the great battle continues as an al illery duel. There has been practically no fighting by the in entry for thirty-six hours, both sides realizing the futility of sacrificing men while the intrenched positions remain intact.

Every effort is being brought to bear to demolish the German batteries. The French artillery fire is increasing in intensity all along the line. It was kept up all night, and of the German Reichstag, delivered a three are indications of a coming change from the German
